

PERSPECTIVE MONTHLY

PERSPECTIVE+

THE KEY

DESIGN+

A&D TROPHY AWARDS

40 UNDER 40

BRAIN TRUST

INDUSTRY NEWS

PHOTO GALLERIES

DOSE OF DESIGN

BLOG

E-NEWSLETTER

SECRET CHAIR PROJECT EXHIBITION

about us
contact us subscription
e-newsletter
site map

The Sepia Store

DESIGNER

Akshat Bhatt, Architecture Discipline

The SEPIA store is inspired by the colourful streetscenes of its native India

Inspired by scenes from bustling, lively Indian streets, the SEPIA store interprets elements such as the ever-present hawkers — here protected from the elements by a simple, brightly-coloured plastic drape — and the seemingly chaotic ordering system wherein everything is present and visible. The 'shattered' ceiling panels symbolise exhilarating kite battles in the summer sky, and even the anarchy of overhead electrical lines (and the sometimes legal tap-offs!).

Website: www.facebook.com/ArchitectureDiscipline
2014-06-10

Add a comment...

Warning: this comments plugin is operating in compatibility mode, but has no posts yet. Consider specifying comments plugin documentation to take advantage of all plugin features.